Merchant Services

Single Source Payments:
One Vendor, One Fee, One Time

RevSpring™

Taking payments is more complex than meets the eye. The payment processing ecosystem has multiple payment networks, financial institutions, processors, third party agents, merchants, and card holders. Managing this process is time consuming and can be costly if you are not careful. With a single source payment model, RevSpring's Merchant Services eliminates the need for you to manage multiple processing relationships and transaction fees. Our buying power and payment facilitator status provides speed and cost savings with competitive processing fees and funds deposited within 24-48 hours.

RevSpring is behind every payment you take.

Accept a wide array of credit, debit, ACH, and digital wallet payment methods at the point of service, through our self-service payment portal, in your call center, through text or IVR, and more. By owning the processing relationships, we simplify the merchant account onboarding process as well as reduce your payment processing costs and eliminate any gateway transaction fees that you may already have in place. Coupled with a secure and reliable solution that exceeds industry standards, we help mitigate any risk and potential compliance issues that can occur when taking payments. We also provide comprehensive merchant reporting that gives you a current pulse on all of your outstanding payments. With RevSpring, you know where the money is.

How to get started?

Let us evaluate your current payment fees. On average, we help clients reduce their processing rates up to 1%. That adds up considering how many transactions your organization makes in any given year.
